

Destination Matterhorn

Description

The ascent of the Matterhorn is long (1200 metres vertical ascent from the Hörnli hut) and very physical, the altitude presenting an additional challenge. Candidates for the Matterhorn ascent must have an excellent level of fitness (duration 8-9 hours).

- For safety reasons, a roped-up party consists of one client only and one mountain guide.

Day 1: Trip to Zermatt, take the cable-car to "Klein Matterhorn" and ascent of Pollux, 4092m altitude, 5h ascent. Overnight stay at the Ayas mountain hut in Italy, at 3394m altitude.

Day 2: Ascent of the Breithorn and semi-traverse to the Theodule hut at 3317m. Overnight stay at the hut.

Day 3: Traversing to the Hörnli hut at 3260m altitude.

Day 4: Ascent of the Matterhorn via the Hörnli ridge. Descent to Zermatt and end of the trip.

If you have completed the two 4000m peaks suggested in the preparation programme, we can offer you other customised options.
